The London Post publishes a letter from its Belgrade correspondent revealing a lamentable state of affairs in the Serbian army. It seems that there is almost a total absence of military discipline. "It is difficult," the correspondent says, "to say where most of the blame is to be laid, whether upon the inefficiency of the officers, or upon the natural subordination and unteachableness of the men. King Milan's life is being constantly threatened and several attempts to assassinate him have actually been made. The King bravely disregards them and struggles manfully to bring order out of chaos and to get his forces into better shape in view of the possible reopening of hostilities after the armistice. It is well known in Belgrade," says the correspondent, "that Milan was deceived in regard to the effective strength of his army in the same way that Napoleon III. was before the opening of the Franco-Prussian war."

Several horrible outrages were reported recently in Austria. They are evidently perpetrated by the same parties. After the victims had been brainned with an axe, intense excitement existed.

A CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

CHICAGO, ILL., December 24.—Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock all the patients in the county hospital who were able to be moved, all the nurses and doctors and a number of visitors assembled in the clinical amphitheater of the hospital to witness Christmas exercises for the children. The room is very small, about thirty feet long and filled with seats reaching almost to the ceiling. In the center was an immense Christmas tree laden with toys and gaily illuminated with tapers. About forty children were grouped about the tree singing a Christmas carol to open the exercises. As Santa Claus entered the room the upper portion of the room was in a moment the entire tree was ablaze. When the fire was at its height, most of the children were marched out of the room by the lower door and the remaining people in the room, nearly three hundred in number, became panic-stricken. The heat and flames cut off exit by the lower door. There was a rush for the upper door, the only remaining exit, and a few escaped through it, but the passage was soon blocked. Volumes of dense black smoke soon collected in the upper part of the room, where the mass of humanity was crowding and screaming—first from fright and then from agony—for the fire was terrific. A scene of indescribable terror ensued. The heat blistered the faces and hands of the victims, and one man's beard took fire. Great suffering was caused by inhaling the heated atmosphere. The fire burned until the Christmas tree was stripped. Order was finally restored. No one in the room escaped injury and about fifty persons were badly burned, among them two reporters. At six o'clock the doctors, by order of the Governor, had charge of the wounded and the excitement had subsided. Cries of fire had gone through all the wards of the hospital, and for a time there was consternation among the patients. A large number of the situation shows that at least one hundred persons were injured, the greater part receiving bruises by being trampled upon by panic-stricken neighbors. A number of children patients had been brought into the chapel in their coats. Before they could be removed several suffered from the smoke and fright, and one or two were slightly injured. The excitement was intense and but for the quick action of the doctors and some attaches of the hospital lives would certainly have been lost.

CONSUL MUELLER. His Report Not an Unusual Policy in Allowing Consuls to Express Their Free Opinions. WASHINGTON, December 24.—The recent report of Consul General Mueller, which has caused so much comment, was not seen by Secretary Bayard until he read it in the newspapers. He was interested in it as an item of information and news, but officially he does not concern himself about it. "Mr. Mueller is a very competent and efficient officer," said Governor Foster, Assistant Secretary of State. "Since his appointment in May last he has answered very ably and to the satisfaction of all the calls made upon him. There is nothing unusual in the matter of his reports. He took no unwarrantable liberties and violated no principle of diplomacy. It is not only his right, but his duty, to discuss and report everything that may affect the commerce of this country, as far as his observations extend, and he is an observant man, far-seeing and of keen insight. Being interested by Governments to be reproduced in the newspapers of Frankfurt-on-the-Main. It is easy to understand that some of the people of that city will not be favorably impressed with them. The men with whom he comes in contact here may thus be led to turn the coat and slander him; but beyond a little social coldness, the publication can not operate to his prejudice. It is not understood by Governments to be the duty of a consul to enquire the Government of the country in which he is stationed; neither is it his duty to withhold his free opinions. A German consul in this country is not understood by Governments to be the principles of our Government as severely as he chooses, and this Government will not take offense or seek to suppress him. We may not agree with his opinions, and may not like them, but we will not deny his right to hold and express them. It is not to be expected that the consular reports sent to foreign Governments by agents in this country are confined to the mere trade and commercial and unobscured friendship for our interests and ours. I have no doubt that some German consuls in this country indulge in criticisms as free as that of Mr. Mueller. The relation between the consular reports and our never more friendly than now, and it is idle to talk of a rupture of diplomatic relations because of anything contained in Mr. Mueller's report."

THE Servian King. LONDON, December 23.—The Post publishes a letter from its Belgrade correspondent revealing a lamentable state of affairs in the Servian army. It seems that there is almost a total absence of military discipline. "It is difficult," the correspondent says, "to say where most of the blame is to be laid, whether upon the inefficiency of the officers, or upon the natural subordination and unteachableness of the men. THE Situation at Nanticoke. WILKESBARRE, Pa., December 23.—The situation at Nanticoke remains unchanged. MORMON CONSPIRATORS.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, December 23.—The trial of R. Y. Hampton, charged with conspiracy, commenced before Judge Zane yesterday. Hampton is a city officer and a prominent Saint, charged with entering into a conspiracy with prostitutes to establish a house of prostitution for the purpose of entrapping Federal officials and Gentiles. The only witness examined was Mrs. Fields, one of the prostitutes. She testified that she had entered into a contract with Hampton, that he had furnished her with a house for her, and that the police had promised her that she should not be arrested for running a house of prostitution in the city.

The police paid her rent and reserved one room in the house for the prostitutes. Hampton took the witness past Governor Murray's house in a buggy, pointed out his residence and told her to call on the Governor and try to get him to come on her. He promised her $100 if she got the Governor. He and his associates told her they wanted to get the names of these Gentiles, so they could take them off the jury in polygamy trials. They wanted to entrap the Governor in order to get polygamists out of the penitentiary. The trial is exciting great interest, and is attended by the Governor, the Mayor of the city and other officials. There are three other indictments against Hampton, one for conspiracy with another woman and two for keeping houses of ill fame. Judge Zane impaneled a Grand Jury yesterday and gave them printed instructions to investigate cases of polygamy, unlawful cohabitation, and lewdness and habits of lewd houses. He referred to rumors that jurymen would be made to suffer if they did not do thorough work, and said he would examine each juror, and they should defend themselves even by shooting their assailants if necessary.

THE APACHES. Indian Depredations Causing Alarm in New Mexico. EL PASO, TEX., December 22.—Additional particulars of the fight between the regular troops and Apaches in the vicinity of Silver City, N. M., were brought to El Paso today by the train from the West. It is now believed that in addition to the physical and moral courage of the Indians, who are now a very powerful tribe, and know that in declaring war they will be able to destroy as a Captain and troops they have acquired since their settlement on the reservation, but they think that while they have no right to go off the reservation without permission, yet the land owned by the Government is not their own, and the cowboys have no more right there than they have. Governor Ross has the will to right these matters, but it is feared that he is not the power to back that will. However, he has shown he is not in the past that he will do all he can to protect the wards of the Government when they are wrongfully imposed upon, and it is earnestly hoped that he will be able to do some means by which the evil may be averted.

THE Pension Office. Clerks Not to be Discharged—Another Decision. WASHINGTON, December 24.—It was reported today that four hundred clerks and examiners in the Pension Office were to be dismissed January 1. The Chief Clerk denies the statement and says that the report probably grew out of the fact that they are systematically lessening the work of the Pension Office. However, the fact that along with any smaller force, but the time and labor saved must be put upon the accumulated work.

KANSAS CITY, December 22.—A special from Kingman announces that Judge Wall, of the District Court of that county, has rendered a lengthy opinion in the case of the State of Kansas against the Denver, Memphis & Atlantic Railway. The Board of County Commissioners of Kingman County and the Bank of Kingman, granting a temporary injunction against the delivery of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars of bonds issued by the Denver, Memphis & Atlantic Railway in aid of the Denver, Memphis & Atlantic Railway.
